Among those he tells us are tranquillity—in many cases the greatest of all; good air, free exercise out doors, cheerful mental recreation, agreeable objects, pleasant walks, various employments within doors and without doors, and fertile and fertile gardens. These are all acknowledged powers to contribute to the recovery of the curable patients; and to the comfort and happiness of all. "Without these, even kindness, patience, and humane attention are ineffectual." Any one who has seen his wretched fellow-creatures striding like caged animals in the miserable yards will know how much of any of those curative means can be applied there even under the reformed regime. But we now have had public sayings—of which this at Kew is the precursor—in which charity will not be outraged, and in which the exertions of humane and scientific medical men will be aided, instead of being frustrated, and where, to quote from the letter of Mr. Cooper, published in a recent report of the Commissioners of Lunacy—"where, above all, the amplest possible

Plaintiff's claim for the money was refused, and the property was sold. Plaintiff then brought suit for the money. The jury found for the plaintiff and awarded her $100.00. ## GENERAL SUMMARY.

LONDON, August 26.
The Australian June mails were delivered in London on the 14th and 20th August.

Her Majesty enjoys uninterrupted health. The Prince and Princess of Wales intend visiting Denmark, escorted by the Channel fleet.

The Queen's speech in prorogation of Parliament, on the 29th July, dwells chiefly on the observance of strict neutrality between the belligerents in America.

Lord Palmerston is in excellent health and increasing popularity.

Lord Carlisle, Viceroy of Ireland, has retired through ill health. The vice-royalty was offered to the Marquis of Lansdowne and Duke of Devonshire, but both declined to accept it; the appointment of Prince Alfred is suggested, and much discussed; but the Times hints that the post has been offered to Lord Woodhouse.

Sir Charles McCarthy, Governor of Ceylon, died in Belgium on the 14th August. Lawrence Oliphant is likely to be his successor.

It is expected that pensions to Governors of Colonies on retirement from public service will be granted shortly by the Government.

It is said the Marquis of Westminster, Sir Charles Wood, Mr. Wentworth Beaumont, Sir W. Bullock, and Mr. Denison (Speaker) are to be raised to the Peerage.

Serious and disgraceful riots have taken place at Belfast between Protestants and Catholics, arising out of the O'Connell demonstration in Dublin; the town for twelve days was virtually in possession of furious mobs, numbering upwards of seventy thousand, who committed frightful excesses. Churches of different denominations were broken into, and sacked. Vast numbers of houses were demolished, and black-mail levied for the purchase of ammunition. The Mayor and some of the magistrates left town during the riots. Sixty persons were killed, and two hundred received gunshot wounds.

AMERICA.

New York, 12th August.
The Federal General Grant is completely beaten by Lee, and compelled to abandon his campaign.

The Federal fleet under Admiral Farragut, consisting of thirty-two vessels carrying 231 guns, attacked the Confederate flotilla and Fort Morgan, at the entrance of Mobile Bay. After a desperate resistance the Confederates were defeated, and the Federals entered the Bay to attack the city.

On the 7th instant, the Confederates evacuated and blew up Fort Powell; the Confederate fleet, except one vessel, is destroyed.

Fort Gaines was treacherously surrendered by Colonel Anderson, of Alabama, to the Federals; the fort was of great strength and provisioned for six months. Anderson had strict orders to defend it to the last.

General Beauregard is ordered from Petersburg to take command at Mobile.

The reported capture of Mobile is discredited. A heavy bombardment of Fort Sumter and Charleston is still progressing.

At Andersonville, South Carolina, over 30,000 Federals are prisoners: 2000 died during the month of June.

The Confederates have retired from Maryland. General Averill overtook and defeated them at Moorfield, Virginia.

The Georgia—late Confederate war-steamer, but recently bought at public auction by the Liverpool merchants—was seized by a Federal man-of-war, and sent to New York with a prize crew. Important international questions will arise in consequence. Federal agents have been trying to induce English soldiers to desert.

From Atlanta the news is conflicting. General Hood, who superseded Johnston, lost 10,000 men in an attack on Federal forces, in one week; the latter also suffered severely.

Federal General Stoneman and 1500 men were captured in attempting to destroy the Macon and Western railroad.

General Sheridan is concentrating his men against the Confederates, in the famous valley of Shenandoah.

The recent Confederate raid into Maryland is said to be to cover Early's operations in the valley, and reinforce Atlanta and Mobile.

A plot to capture and destroy Buffalo, by Secessionists in Canada has been discovered; a large force was organised for the purpose, and they intended to destroy a large portion of the Erie canal.

The reported resignation of Secretary Stanton is contradicted.

An enthusiastic mass meeting of 100,000 persons was held at New York to nominate General McLean to the Presidency. Resolutions were passed, denouncing Lincoln's policy, and declaring General McLean the only man capable of suppressing the rebellion and restoring the Union.

Southern agents at Niagara are concerting with Northern democratic leaders to end the war. Should their candidate be elected President, an armistice will be proclaimed, and a national convention of all States of the old Union called to decide whether re-union is possible. This movement is considered in England to be an attempt to excite civil war in the North.

A Court of Inquiry is investigating the late Federal repulse on the 30th ultimo. Generals Meade and Burnside severally cast the blame on each other.

General Sherman is shelling Atlanta. A Confederate privateer captured a pilot vessel, sixty miles south-east of Sandy Hook.

FRANCE.
Despatches published by the Danish Government, and reproduced in the Paris papers, greatly displease the Emperor Napoleon. The Danes are accused of attempting to make the world believe they were encouraged to resist by the French Government, and subsequently abandoned by it. Also, that a less friendly feeling subsists between England and France than has been the case. It is reported an official contradiction will be given to the above statements.

The King of Spain's visit to the French Court was celebrated by fetes of the most brilliant description.

It is reported that Prince Humbert of Italy, is to marry the Princess Anna Murat.

ITALY.
The Minister of Agriculture and Public Works announced the approaching abolition of all Customs duties for mere purposes of protection, and duties are to be levied in future for revenue only.

A new machine has been invented to supersede the steam engine, at an economy of 60 to 70 per cent., and is called a gasometer.

Garibaldi has resigned the office of Grand Master of the Italian Freemasons.

A Jewish boy named Cohen, ten years old, was kidnapped by a priest, with a view of being Christianised. The authorities refuse to deliver him to his father.

DENMARK AND THE DUCHIES.

It is reported that a complete understanding has been arrived at between Prussia and Austria, and three months' armistice had been accepted.

The Danish King agrees to cede the Duchies of Schleswig-Holstein and Lauenburg, with appertaining islands.

His Majesty, in a speech to the Assembly said, "Having been abandoned by all Europe, we are obliged to seek for peace with an overpowering enemy. It is hard to have to make such a sacrifice, but still harder to prosecute the war."

Union between the King and people may bring about a happier future.

The Press and the people are bitterly discontented with the terms of peace.

The riot occurred between the Orangemen and Roman Catholics, and Belfast continued, with but little interruption for nearly a fortnight at the mercy of a furious mob, who at first directed their attacks against the private houses of obnoxious persons. Afterwards they broke into gunsmiths' shops, and armed themselves for regular battle in the streets. Several persons were killed, and many severely wounded. The constabulary fired more than once into both parties, but the most effectual check was caused by a large body of troops from Dublin. Some party disturbances also occurred in Londonderry and Dundalk.
